SEARLE RECORD

The following is not a book, but a Record in part, only of the Searles family. We are indebted to the industry of the late Sardis Chapman, whose energy knew no bounds. He devoted many years in securing data for these records. How he could have secured so much, is more than we can comprehend. The work, the time, and the expense was surely a great tax. He gave many years to this work.

It is found that Andrew, Edward, and John Searl (Searls or Searle) were born in Warwick, England, and came to Boston in 1634. Andrew settled at first near Boston, thence his family went north and west. Edward went south into Connecticut, and Rhode Island, and thence by his family into Pennsylvania, and thence west. While John, with a few others, came to Springfield in 1635 and made his settlement there. The lot of John, as shown by the old maps, was where the Boston and Albany Depot now stands. He died in 1641, and left one son, John, from whom the large family in these records came.

Auburn, New York - 1897.

W. Searls.

Andrew, Brother Edward, and John Searle.

Born in Warwick, England, about 1610, and with his two brothers came to Boston in 1634. We have been unable to follow down his family line, as they moved north and west, some going into Canada, etc.

The following is furnished from records and family trees.

William Searle.

William Searle, son of Andrew, born about 1640, is mentioned as being in Ipswich in 1663. The Salem Registry of Deeds (Book 3, Ipswich, p. 133) shows that on May 19, 1663, Shoreborne Willison sold " for in consideration of twenty six pounds in hand payd or secured to be payd by William Searle of Boston, in the Courts of Suffolk Joyner" a certain parcel of land; this same land was on Sept. 26, 1663 sold by William Searle to Thomas Dennis (Dennis afterwards married Grace, the widow of William Searle). There is no mention of William Searle among the early records of Boston, and it is assumed that he came to Boston from England. William Searle died in Ipswich August 16, 1667 or 1668. The inventory of his estate showed a value of about £93, and was filed Sept. 24, 1667. No administration of his estate was made until 1722, when on Feb. 23, (1722) his grandson William was given letters of administration " the estate not before having been administered and Grace (Searle) Harris having given her Quitclaim and Samuel Searle, elder brother of William declining to act" Vide Essex Probate records of Ipswich 304, p. 401.

Grace, the widow of William Searle, on Oct. 28, 1668, married Thomas Dennis. The gravestones of Thomas and Grace are to be seen in the old cemetery at Ipswich. William and Grace had three children :

I. Samuel Searle, date of birth unknown. He married Deborah Bragg. Samuel died April 7, 1691.

II. William, born in Ipswich Nov. 22, 1665. He was unmarried and died at Rowley Nov. 7, 1690. "His estate amounts to £8, 18s clear." Administration of his estate was on April 23, 1691 granted to John Harris, his brother-in-law, he stating in his petition "no relation to ask and no wife or child".

(Essex Probate records - Old Ipswich Book 304 page 398)

III. Grace, date of birth unknown, probably 1666; she married Jany. 8, 1685, Sergeant John Harris. He died Nov. 21, 1732, aged 82. Grace died June 10, 1742. They had the following children; (perhaps others)

1. William Harris born Nov. 26, 1690.
2. Rebecca Harris " Jany. 11, 1692.
3. Samuel " " Apr. 9, 1695.
4. Martha " " Dec. 2, 1698.
5. Daniel " " Nov. 22, 1700.
6. Richard " " Nov. 25, 1705.

Samuel Searle (William)

Date of his birth is unknown, probably about 1650, -anyway before his father William settled in Ipswich, for no record of his birth appears in Ipswich records. He married (Date unknown) Deborah Bragg, daughter of Edward Bragg of Ipswich. She was born Dec. 22, 1658, and died at Rowley.

1691. He married the daughter of John Lowell in 1691. He

March 25, 1703. Samuel, her husband, died at Rowley April 7,, 1691(Rowley records Vol.1, p.25) The inventory of his estate amounted to f44. 5s. 0, and was presented at Court, in Ipswich by his wife, Deborah, on Nov. 3, 1691, she being administratrix(Essex Probate records, Ipswich book 304, p. 401-402.)

Samuel Searle and Deborah had the following children:

I. Samuel - Date of birth unknown. He died Mch. 1, 1756, aged about 72. This would make his birth in 1684. I am inclined to think he was born four to six years earlier, say about 1679.

II. William, born Oct. 16, 1685. Died young.

III. John, born Nov. 2, 1686, died June 20, 1771 in his 85 year.

"He has a fall off his horse wch tis that occasioned his death tho he had been in a declining state"(Rowley Records Vol. 1, p. 283)

IV. William, born Sept. 8, 1690.

V. Deborah, born 1691. She married Ephrim Nelson June 14, 1715, and died June 29, 1720.

William Searle(William¹, Samuel²)

Born in Rowley Sept. 8, 1690, and married August 23, 1723 to Jane Nelson. He was deacon of the second church and died May 18, 1778 in his 88th year(records say 80) His wife, Jane died March 30, 1778, in her 75th year. Jane was the daughter of Jeremiah Nelson and his wife Ann. Jeremiah Nelson was "slain by ye Indians at Dunstable 10 July, 1700.) Jeremiah was the son of Capt. Philip Nelson who was born in England in 1633 and was graduated at Harvard College about 1654. He married the daughter of John Lowell in 1666. He was a justice of the peace and Captain of a company "under command of Sir William Phipps, which is going against the French at Nova Scotia". He died August 19, 1891.

William Searle and his wife, Jane, had several children, and among them the following:

Jeremiah Searle¹(William², Samuel, William³) Born in Rowley May 27, 1725. Died in Rowley Oct. 29, 1799, aged 74 years. Married on Sept. 23, 1758 to Mary Thurston, daughter of Richard Thurston of Newbury, "soon of Rowley". Richard Thurston was deacon of the second church at Rowley; he married May 5, 1731, Mehitable Jewett; Mehitable died May 18, 1789, aged 78, and the gravestones of both may be seen at Rowley (Georgetown parish) Jeremiah Searle had several children: among them: (Note- Mehitable was daughter of Jonathan Jewett)

Stephen Searle, born Oct. 13, 1767.

Stephen Searle (William¹, Samuel², William³, Jeremiah⁴)

Born at Rowley Oct. 13, 1767, and died April 11, 1853, aged 86. On Feb. 23, 1793 he married Mary (Polly) Jewett.

She was the daughter of Jeremiah Jewett and Jane Searle, (and, of course Mary was cousin to Stephen) Jane had twelve children. Jeremiah Jewett was the son of Aquila Jewett and Ann Tenny, the daughter of Thomas Tenny, in turn son of Thomas, who was one of the early settlers of Rowley, who came from England in 1643. Aquila Jewett was born Sept. 14, 1684, and died Nov. 24, 1760; he was the son of Joseph Jewett, born about 1655, died 1735; he was the son of Deacon Maximilian Jewett, who came to Rowley with the Rev. Ezekiel Rogers (1639, the founder of Rowley)

Stephen Searle and Mary had the following children :

Jeremiah, born Feb. 19, 1794; died May 30, 1861.

The Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu, of March 3, contains the following:

Among the arrivals on the last steamer from the coast were Mr. and Mrs. Baker of Topeka, Kansas. They have already visited the volcano, and altogether they are much pleased with the Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Baker left Topeka in October, 1889, and have been traveling ever since. They expect to reach home in April. Mr. Baker first saw the light of day at Hilo, Hawaii, in 1853. His father, Floyd Baker, was at that time the able district attorney of the Island of Hawaii. During his visit to the volcano last week, Mr. Baker stopped at Hilo, and met a large number of people who knew his parents when they resided at Hilo, and he gathered a great deal of information which will be most interesting to his parents when he returns to the states. Mr. Baker enjoyed himself very much at Hilo during his brief stay. He is manager of the Kansas Newspaper union, which supplies 174 newspapers with news. As Mr. Baker intends to write up his impressions of the island for use by the union, it will be seen that he is likely to spread correct information that we ought to appreciate, and that will not do any harm to the islands.

In looking over the report of Chief Justice William P. Linn to the legislature of 1854, we find the following reference to Mr. Baker's father: " From the district attorney of the large and important island of Hawaii, Floyd Baker, Esq., I have received a valuable and satisfactory report of the judicial transactions of that district for the year 1853, and one which I think may be relied upon as correct. Mr. Baker has visited every district on the island, except one, at much trouble and expence, and I take pleasyre in saying that I have learned from several quarters that he has proved himself a useful and efficient officer,"

JOHN SEARLE FAMILY.

John Searle was abrother of Edward(1) Searle of Providence, Rhode Island, and Andrew(1) Searle of Ipswich, Mass. who were all born in Old England, in Warwick.

John Searle(1) in 1635 in company with others came to Springfield, Mass., as first settlers of that place. His home lot was a little north of the Union Depot of that city. He married, March 19, 1639, Sarah Baldwin, but they were separated by his death August 11, 1641. He left a son, John(2) Searle, born March 30, 1641. He had made his will eight months before, and may have been in feeble health. His widow married in April 28, 1642 the next spring, Alexander Edwards. In 1655 they removed as first settlers to what is now the city of Northampton. They are the ancestors of all of the name of Edwards and Searle in the Connecticut valley.

John(2) Searle, who was born in Springfield, March 30, 1641, married first(July 3, 1667) Ruth Janes, daughter of

She was one of eight children. Mrs. Strong Clark, herself 86, and many years of late living under the same roof with Mrs. E., alone survives. The deceased was married in 1817, to Mr. Luther Edwards, and then came to live in Southampton. She had previously taught several terms of school in this town, with much success. She proved a most valuable helpmeet, and looked well to the ways of her household. She had one son and six daughters. Two died in infancy. Five grew up, and three survive her. Longevity has not been exceptional in her family. Her mother lived to be ninety, her grandmother 92. Though 96 herself, she was generally in good health, bright and entertaining, and interested in the young, who often gathered around her; hard of hearing, yet insisting on knowing all the news, and seeing those who called. And so her absence will be very noticeable, and tenderly regretted."

THE LATE HARRIET E. CHAPMAN.

A Southampton good Samaritan. A doer of good deeds during a long life.

The life and character of Miss Harriet E. Chapman deserves more than the brief notice of her death. Being much of an invalid for many years, she has lived retired from society, but for many years she doubtless has been more actively interested in benevolent work for the poor of the town than any other person. She was left sole heir to a few thousands, which her father had accumulated in a long lifetime of industry and economy. During the later years of his life, the father and daughter drove from door to door, seeking out, and supplying the wants of the needy and destitute.

Since the death of Mr. Whiting Street, she has been the most prominent dispenser of his bequest to the worthy poor of this town, and in her will Miss Chapman had added one thousand dollars to the same object, to be dispensed in the same way. Southampton should keep her name in honored and grateful remembrance. Besides the thousand dollars left to the worthy poor generally, she left nearly as much to individuals who had special claims on her sympathy or regard. She also left a legacy to the town for the care of her own family burial lot and three other plots of ground belonging to her kindred, and further made provision for a handsome iron fence for the cemetery fronting the main street.
